

i3 team dynamix 1 Day Accreditation Course

What is i3?

i3 is a full Organisational Development trait-based assessment tool that will support you with the whole people management, succession planning and employee development life-cycle. Raising both self and social awareness, the i3 assessment tools heighten both self and social awareness supporting the intervention and implementation of relevant learning and development programmes. What really makes the i3 assessment tool stand apart from others, is its focus on individuality rather than conformity. This means that every output shows you the potential of an individual rather than how they fit in a box or need to conform. Along with our unique i3 recruit and i3 career direction assessment reports, this is talent management that embraces individuality from cradle to grave.

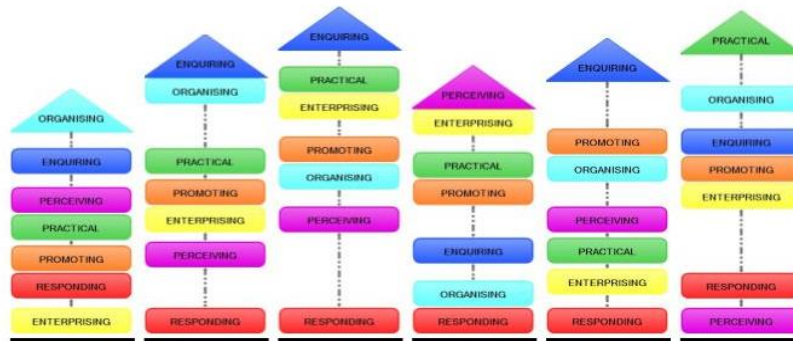

How does it work?

Considering 7 Individual Instinctive Indicators the i3 profile assessment will reveal a totally unique combination for each person as well as provide insight into the environment they are likely to be most productive and fulfilled within. The i3 profile feedback is designed to encourage people to be more of themselves by working to their strengths, as well as gaining a new perspective on how to relate to others better. Engage with people quickly and build accelerated trust by being able to see below the surface in people and offer accurate guidance and advice.

What is i3 team dynamix?

After completion of the foundation course, this training will teach you on how to create a team profile; helping to take relationships and effectiveness within groups of people to another level.
